

CET – IP University 2011 – Analysis

One Law Entrance Exam that definitely left students ecstatic and overjoyed was the Common Entrance Test organized by the IP University held on 22nd May 2011. The students were exhilarated and found the paper very easy. After giving all the lengthy and tough entrance exams they thought this paper to be a cakewalk.

The paper comprised of 150 questions divided into four separate sections. Students had 2 hours 30 minutes to complete the entire paper. Four marks were allotted to each correct answer and one mark was deducted for every wrong answer.

Most of the students could solve the paper with ease. Per se they did not find any particular section difficult. The sectional division of the paper was different compared to the other law entrances. The details of each section are as follows:

- (i) English: This section comprised of one reading comprehension passage. The passage was short and consisted of vocabulary based, inference based and specific detail questions. This section also comprised of finding the errors, fill in the blanks, idioms, synonyms and antonyms. There were forty questions in total and the overall difficulty level of this section can be called as easy.
- (ii) General Knowledge: This section basically comprised of questions on current affairs along with few static general knowledge questions as well. The difficulty level of this part can also be said to be easy. All the students who were thorough with the LST modules and a regular newspaper reader could finish the section without any effort. There were total fifty questions in this section.
- (iii) Legal Reasoning: This section comprised of thirty questions. There were around three principle-fact based reasoning questions. Rest of them was inference based legal reasoning questions. What left student amazed were the three mathematical questions which featured in this section, though the questions were pretty simple and basic. All in all, the difficulty level can be said to be easy to moderate of this section.
- (iv) Legal Aptitude: This section can be called the brother of the General Knowledge section. It comprised of about thirty questions based on legal knowledge. Most of the questions were focused from the legal current affair though there was couple of direct questions testing the knowledge of the Constitution of India as well.

On the whole, it was a trouble-free and unproblematic paper. The overall cut-off of the paper can be safely estimated as 500+. The detailed analysis of different sections of the paper is set out below:

Section	No. of Questions	Suggested time (mins)	Possible Attempts	Possible Scores
English	40	35	35	30*4=120
General Knowledge	50	30	50	45*4=180
Legal Reasoning	30	45	30	25*4=100
Legal Aptitude	30	40	30	25*4=100
Total	150	150	165	500

All said and done, CET paper ended the 2011 season of law entrance exams with a happy note and smile on the faces of most of the law aspirants.

With Best Wishes!
